SILVER CITY FIRE LOSSES.

Death of Edward Koyle - Mine Accidents - Anderson-Dove Nuptials. Special Correspondence.

Eureka, Juab Co., Aug. 15 .- The fir haurance adjusters have been busy this week ascertaining the extent of the losses created by the conflagration at Silver City, and the insurance car-ried. There are very little differences ried. There are very little differences in the report of the adjusters and the figures given in the Deseret News at the time of the fire. Messrs. Lyndstrom, the shoemaker, and Peterson, the blacksmith, have began to replace their places of business which were destroyed. The new buildings will be of frame and more commodious than those destroyed.

John Wilson, the man who was so severely burned by the flames while trying to extinguish the fire in the Pink residence is improving slowly, as his wounds are very painful, and it will be some time before be will be in a condition to have the bandages removed from his blistered body. DEATH OF EDWARD KOYLE.

PLANNING FOR WATERWORKS. More Smallpox and Water Suits Rural Postal Delivery.

Special Correspondence. Spanish Fork Utah, Aug. 15.—This cown for some time past, has been afflicted with two very serious complaints, smallpox and water suits. For a couple of months, however, we have enjoyed immunity from their ravages. and it was hoped that we were going to enjoy a season of rest, but it seems that we were mistaken for both have broken out in as virulent a form as ver. Two cases of smallpox developed this week, and a new water suit was ommenced in the district court. ish Fork feels that it has had more of both of these diseases than its just share, but still hopes for better days.

PLANS FOR WATERWORKS. The city council appropriated $600 for Their kiln is completed and Mr. Clapp is putting in every day making jars, flower pots and saucers and other needed crocks. They hope to be ready to begin burning in another 10 days. They are making some excellent wares.

NO MORE CANYON SALOONS. At their meeting on Monday county commissioners refused to issue any more licenses for running saloon in Salina canyon. The matter had been referred for investigation to Commissioner Jensen and Atty. Erickson, who were in the canyon during the week and their report was against renewing any saloon licenses for the canyon hereafter, so that the request of saloon keepers for another license was acted upon adversely. The committee says against a canyon saloon and that all their informants were positive that it made trouble for the contractors and was greatly delaying the work.

DIGGING POTATOES.

During the extremely wet weather thousands of bushels of potatoes rotted in the fields which might have been saved had the owners dug them at the proper time. After the vines on the potato die, it is ripe, and no good purpose is served in leaving them in the ground We are aware of the fact that this is the general custom, and man r farmers seem to think that they are improved by this practice. The time to harvest any crop is when it is ripe, and if neglected it is more likely to deterior-ate rather than improve. In the case of potatoes, if wet weather sets in, they are Hable to rot, and if they escap that, they will make a second growth, and be rendered worthless. When left long in the ground they are often watery and of an otherwise inferior quality. The weather promises to be dry for the next few weeks, and it will be an ideal season in which to harvest the potato crop. If there are several acres of them, it will pay to purchase a potato digger, if not a shovel ter the vegetables are picked up spring-tooth harrow run over the patch to uncover the remainder will answer the purpose. Gather the potatoes and put them in piles of about five bushels each ,in the field, and cover them over with vines and grass, and leave until cool weather until storing away. Those who follow this practice will find that their potatoes will be cleaner, mealler and in every way superior to those left until fall before digging,— Chicago Drover's Journal.

GROW YOUR

OWN STRAW BERRIES

We had our last dish of strawberries for supper today, writes an all round farmer in the New York Tribune Farmer. They tasted just as good as the first of the season. If we could have them until snow flies I think it would be the same way. We never would tire of the luscious fruit. They seem sweet-er than ever, since we have had them from our own garden. It did not seem to us we ever could do anything grow-ing strawberries. That was before we tried. Is not that the way with many things? We fall because we think of nothing but failure.

Shall we tell you how we came to muster up courage enough to try? The berries we bought were so stale and wilted by the time they reached us that we did not enjoy them very much. They made us almost sick every time we ate them. Finally we became reckless, and determined to risk a few dollars on the crop anyway. We drew a lot of clean barnyard manure out of the plat we intended to plow for berries, plowed it deep, harrowed it thoroughly and drew a line. Four kinds of berries had been recommended to us-Excelsior, Ridgeways, Samples and Clydes, These one after the other, and this year we have eaten them morning, noon and night, and between meals also. first year we kept the runners all clip-ped. The weeds were not allowed to get a start, and when cold weather came we mulched them with buckwheat straw, but we never will again, for there will be more or less of the seed left in the straw, and this all came up the next year. Oat straw is far better. Now we know we can raise strawberries, and we advise other

Preston, Oneida Co., Ida., Aug. 15.-At farmers to go and do likewise. And begin now. TO PREVENT SMUT IN WHEAT

In many places in this and adjoining counties, grain smut has caused very serious loss to wheat growers, some of whom have lost their entire crop of grain through this disease. Anything, therefore, which promises to lessen the losses resulting from this cause, will interest wheat growers, especially dur-ing the nearby planting season.

There are found in wheat loose smut and stinking smut. The loose smut is that noticeable at blossoming time, and usually destroys the entire head. It is perhaps, more general, though usually much less destructive than the stinking smut, which converts the kernels of wheat into masses of dark brown, ill-wheat into masses of dark brown, ill-smelling fungous spores.

The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station has for several years past con-ducted experiments in the prevention of smuts in wheat, and has been success-ful in preventing both of these smuts, and recommends the following methods for stinking smut in wheat:

In all the methods employed for stinking smut it is probably advisable to immerse the grain first in cold water. with stirring, and to skim off the smut balls which will, in this manner rise to the top of the water. After this is com-pleted either of the following treatments may be employed:

1. Hot water. Immerse this skimmed seed, contained in gunny bag or suitable wire mesh vessel, for 10 minutes, in hot water, at a temperature of 133 degrees F. Then dry on smut-free surface, cooling quickly by thoroughly stirring, or cold water may be employed to cool the grain. Remember, these ter peratures are to be determined by thermometer; longer immersion than 10 minutes, at that temperature, may injure the grain. 2. Bluestone, copper sulfate. Make a solution at the rate of 1 pound to 5 gallons of water; in this solution im-minutes. Allow to stand 10 minutes in sack to drain, then spread and dry with air-slacked lime, shoveling over frequently.

Or by sprinkling, use the above solution at the rate of one gallon to one bushef of grain in heap. Apply by sprinkling can at intervals of 5 to 10 minutes, stir the whole so as to be the rate of one pound to 50 gallons of water and the seed treated by sprinking or by immersion for 30 minutes. FOR LOOSE SMUT OF WHEAT.

Modified hot water treatment as follows: Soak the seed grain for four hours in cold water, let stand four hours nore in wet sacks; then immerse for five minutes in hot water at a tem-perature of 133 degrees F; spread at once on a smut-free surface to dry, and sow. Use one-half more seed to replace that injured by the treatment.

VALUABLE HOURS ON FARM

"What do you consider the most valuable hours of your life, from a commercial standpoint?" I asked a wealthy farmer.

"The most valuable time," he responded promptly, "was the summer I had my leg broken. I was fixing the hay-rigging for the first load of hay, when I slipped, fell, and broke my leg. For a time I was prostrated by the calamity. I really was not conscious of the pain at all. Overwhelming defeat stared me in the face. I was deep in debt, and was counting on the summer's work to help me out and buy some much-needed machinery. And here I was as helpless as a child, with corn to plow, sorghum to drill, hay and wheat harvest coming on, potatoes and fruit to look after. I never before realized what an immense amount of work could be crowded in one month's

'My wife, God bless her! saved the day for us. We had but one hand, and could get none other for love or money. She was not strong, but she went into the hay-field, and rode the mower and rake. The hand loaded the hay alone, but she helped unload. She kept things moving on the farm better than if I had been there. One thing I noticed, she always laid down every afternoon. And whenever thing began to fret her she stoppped and took herself in hand. I can never do much when I worry, she explained apologetically.

"What little cooking was done our five-year-old boy and I did. He brought things to me, and I sat by the side of the gasoline-stove and cooked enough keep soul and body in conjunction.
"One day, when I was pitying my wife and worrying over our prospects, she brought me a pencil and paper, saying, 'There is no condition of life, howsoever distressing, but can be turned to account by a wise man. Plan, and write out your plans, how to do work more economically and better.

Read it to me when I come in."
"I did so. There were no more weary hours for me. By the time I was able to be up I had the balance of the season's work mapped out so as to con serve time and energy. We made more that year than in any previous one. Since then there has not been a year that I have not made improvements in my plans. Yes, indeed, that broken leg was worth thousands of dollars to me."

I found myself wishing that many other drudging farmers might get a broken leg, and reap the same benefist.

BUFFALO BILL'S HEARTY TRIBUTE

Cured of Rheumatism by Kickapoo Indian Sagwa and Kickapoo Indian Oil.

HE UNHESITATINGLY ENDORSES THEM.

Says They Cure Where a Cure is Possible and That They Are Unequalled.

There is no man in America whose knowledge of the Indians, their strong and their weak points can compare with that of Hon. W. F. Cody, Buffalo Bill. The years he spent amongst the different tribes as an invaluable representative and counselor of the United States government gave him a familiarity with their capabilties, skill, habits and customs which makes him the greatest living authority on all matter relating to Indians. With this wonderful knowledge what does Buffalo Bill do when taken sick? Does he consult some high priced practitioner? Does he take some deadly mineral medicine? No. He does just what the humblest man can do as well as the richest. He re sorts to the simple but wonderfully sure Kickapoo Indian remedies, which are made from roots, herbs, gums, barks and leaves, whose formulas were se cured from the Kickapoos. And what was the result? He was to use his own words "speedily cured." Here is what Col. Cody says:

"I have known of the virtues of the Kickapeo Indian Remedies for a long time, on the frontier and in the east they are considered indispensable to every household. I used Kickapoo In dian Sagwa for Malaria and chills with the best results it being far better for this trouble than quinine or any other remedy. I also used Kickapoo Indian Sagwa and Kickapoo Indian Oil for rheumatism and was speedlly and entirely cured. You can use my name and say for what they are recommended the Kickapoo Indian Remedies have no equal."

Sufferers, after reading such a tribute from such a man, can you hesitate? If you have kidney, liver, heart or tomach trouble, rheumatism, impoverished blood, constipation, catarrh or nervous disorder, Kickapoo Indian Sagwa will surely cure you, and it won't leave any unpleasant after effects eith er like mineral medicines do sold in 50 cent and $1.00 bottles. Kickapoo Indian Oil, the sovereign family liniment which is sold at the people's price of 25 cents a bottle,
